

June 15, 2011 RESERVOIR LEVEL AND SNOW UPDATE

Wolf Creek is now the only Snotel site still with a snowpack, but more than half is gone and the remainder should be melted in the next week or two. This runoff season has been well below average, but flow in the floodway at San Marcial in the past week has increased, as it has upstream at Otowi Bridge. Storage in Elephant Butte/Caballo is continuing to decrease, and is now 270,000 ac-ft and 450,000 ac-ft below the levels on this date in 2010 and 2009, respectively.

COMBINED STORAGE Elephant Butte and Caballo June 13, 2011 375,947 acre-feet

WOLF CREEK

